Partial Accord Sought

PARIS, Dec. 7 (Reuters).—Dr. Luis Padilla Nervo, U.N. Assembly president, today attempted to rejuvenate the sagging four-power talks on disarmament by asking for at least a "skeleton" agreement between east and west.

He made the bid at a meeting of the four powers after private talks with delegates.

Although the delegates Thursday reported themselves unable to agree on any of the major aspects of disarmament, Nervo aims to produce a rough form of agreement on the minimum they might accept now.

From a study of the two sets of peace proposals handed in by east and west, he produced a memorandum containing points on which the two sides are considered not too far apart:

A treaty or convention should be drawn up providing for the eventual prohibition of atomic weapons.

All states should, in some form or another, submit data on their arms and armed forces.

An international control organ should be created to verify this data.

A system of safeguards should be established to ensure that the disarmament program is effectively observed.

A world conference should be called to discuss the general scope of disarmament for all nations.

The General Assembly should at this session establish a disarmament commission which would work out the practical details of the various schemes in progress.

The memorandum admitted there remained other major points on which the two sides were hopelessly divided.

The General Assembly reaffirmed its opposition to U.N. membership for Communist China and then voted for the fourth time in favor of admitting Italy as a full partner.

Fifty-four members of the U.N. country organization backed Italy's bid, but a Soviet veto in the Security Council is expected again to balk the will of the majority.

The assembly voted 39 to 7, with four abstentions, against a resolution by White Russia objecting to a credentials committee report stating the Chiang government represented China legally here.

The assembly disbanded the U.N. special committee on the Balkans which has kept watch on Greece's troubles with Communist neighbors for years. The vote was 48 to 5 (Soviet bloc).

Burn Victim Only Fair

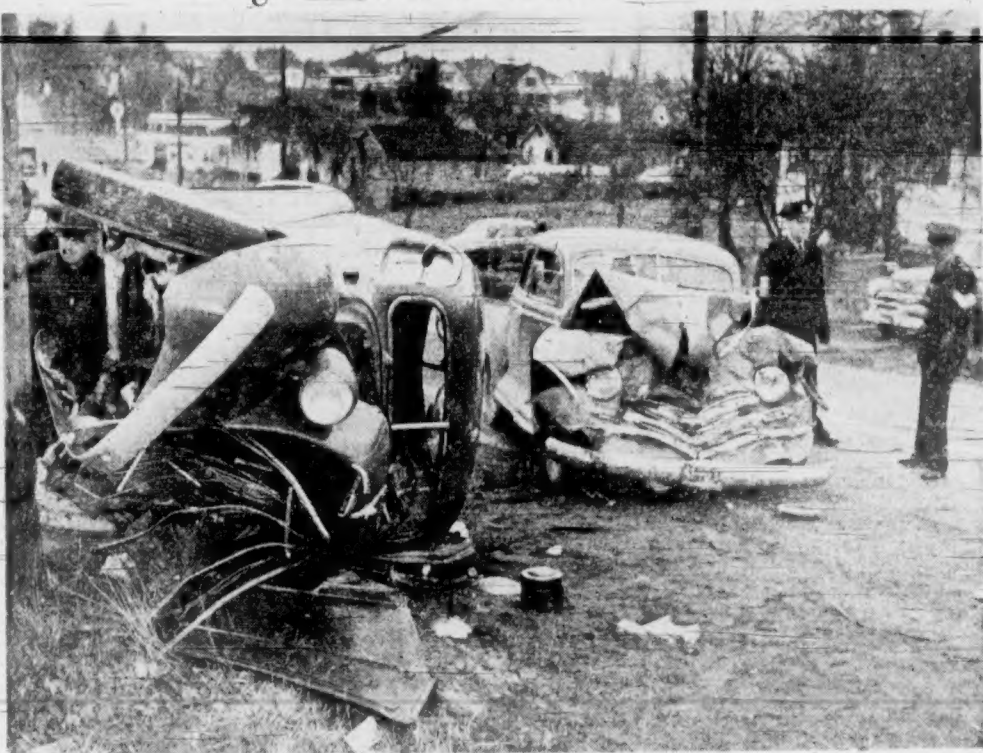

Condition of Mrs. Annie Rogers, 86, of 934 Burnside, burned when her clothing caught fire Thursday afternoon, was only fair yesterday, hospital officials said.

She was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Saanich police.

Gorge Road Adds to Collision Count

Residents of this section of the Gorge Road near Harriet describe it as another "death alley" as a result of the number of accidents that have occurred there during the years. This mass of twisted metal sent two women and a man to hospital. Car on left was pointed in opposite direction before the impact. (Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

U.S. Loses Two Planes Overseas

By The Canadian Press

A B-29 Superfort bomber with 16 aboard and a C-47 cargo plane with 10 were lost on overseas missions Thursday, United States Air Force sources disclosed Friday.

The B-29 crashed minutes after takeoff from the Azores on a flight to Bermuda and Tampa, Fla.

Hard rain and moderately high seas hampered searches.

The C-47, en route from Tripoli to the Mediterranean via Marseille, France, last radioed Thursday night that it expected to land in 15 minutes. Then it disappeared.

"Where did you come from?" exclaimed Olson, jumping out of bed. He thought he was the only human being within at least 30 miles. He had learned from radio broadcasts that an attempt might be made to pick him up, but thought he would hear any plane.

Frankham brought his two-seater Tiger Moth down on a mile-wide ice shelf a quarter of a mile away.

"I just walked up to the house and got Olsen out of bed. We sat around and had some coffee then left for home."

Both were rushed to the hospital. Burke was suffering from severe frostbite. The child was neither harmed nor seriously frostbitten, Skelton said.

Skelton said Burke became unbalanced mentally while trapping in the wild country north of Nenana.

Head-On Crash Brings Tragedy Into Holiday

Head-on crash of two cars on the Gorge Road yesterday afternoon canceled a happy holiday today for a student nurse at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Taken to the emergency ward of the hospital in two police vehicles were Mrs. Christine Harris, 45, of Saltair—Station Road, Ladysmith, mother of student nurse Mike, Norma Harris, 21, and Miss Harris' grandmother, Mrs. Jane Taylor, 70, of White Street, Ladysmith.

In another police car was Leslie Marlow, about 22, 1303 Yates Street.

Hospital officials late last night gave their condition: Mrs. Taylor—critical, Mrs. Harris—good, Mr. Marlow—serious.

Police described the accident as one of the worst in Victoria for some time.

The up-island car, driven by Mrs. Harris, was proceeding into Victoria to pick up Nurse Harris at the Royal Jubilee Hospital to take her to Ladysmith for a one-day holiday.

The other car, driven by Marlow, was going west on the Gorge Road near Harriet Road. They collided head-on near the brow of the hill just west of the intersection.

The Marlow car spun around, hit a telephone pole and came to rest on its side.

The Harris car stopped completely. Police said the impact was so severe the rear wheels of the car were shaken loose.

Const. David Shepherd of the Saanich police department was the first policeman on the scene.

Marlow was lying unconscious besides his car in a pool of gasoline. Const. Shepherd immediately took him to hospital.

Sgt. Eric Elwell, also from Saanich, arrived in another car almost at the same time as city police.

Sgt. Elwell turned his Saanich vehicle over to Sgt. William Andrews of the city police, who took Mrs. Harris to the emergency ward.

Another city police constable followed in the patrol wagon with Mrs. Taylor.

The accident was almost on the border between Saanich and the city. Residents in the area described that section of the highway as "another death alley."

Police said Marlow, who suffered serious head lacerations, regained consciousness at the hospital but was later given a sedative. He had not been questioned up to press time.

Mrs. Harris, according to her daughter, who stood by her bedside, was in good condition. Police said she suffered a badly lacerated nose and face and an injured knee in the accident.

Mrs. Taylor is suffering multiple lacerations of face, body and legs. Her head evidently struck the windshield of the car.

Nurse Harris said last night it was a "shock" to discover her mother and grandmother had been in an accident.

"They came down to pick me up for my day off," she said.

Police indicated charges may be laid.

Jet Fighters Tangle

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 8 (Saturday) (AP)—Allied and Communist jets tangled in three air battles this morning. Ground action was restricted to a small clash on the central front.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said no damage was inflicted by either side in the jet duels.

The biggest air battle pitted 31 F-86 Sabre jets against 75 MIG-15's. The engagement, just north of Pyongyang, lasted 15 minutes.

Another flight of 40 MIG's jumped a formation of F-84 Thunderjets that had just made 10 rail cuts north of Sinanju. The Americans opened fire but no confirmed hits were scored.

The third engagement also involved Thunderjets and MIG's, with no damage reported.

On the cold, wet ground, a reinforced company of Reds attacked an Allied Hill position early Saturday. It was thrown back after a 34-hour fight.

The action was about two miles southwest of Kumsong.

It was one of the quietest days since the Reds first invaded South Korea.

One Allied patrol probed into the North section of a hill mass dubbed "Little Italy" because of its boot-like shape. It was met by strong anti-air, mortar and artillery fire.

R.C.A.F. Officer Killed In Duck-Hunting Mishap

An R.C.A.F. recruiting officer, who was "getting in his flying time for the month," was fatally wounded in a shooting accident at Tofino about noon yesterday.

Flt. Lieut. Kenneth Williams, former air-sea rescue pilot at Sea Island and now recruiting officer at Vancouver, was accidentally shot by his own gun when he tripped in a ditch while hunting ducks on the outskirts of the airfield.

Air force officials said last night that Williams was on a routine flight aboard a Dakota which landed at the airfield.

Other men aboard the craft had business to attend to, so Williams decided to do some hunting near the airfield.

The gun went off while he was crossing a ditch. His cries brought other officers rushing to the scene. The injured man was rushed to Vancouver aboard the plane for medical attention. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Shaughnessy Hospital.

Williams was a Second World War veteran who recently completed a "tour" with air-sea rescue.

British Pressing Bridge Project In Canal Zone

Will Build Needed By-Pass Over Egyptian Objections

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Dec. 7 (AP)—British military headquarters said tonight they are going ahead with a bridge-building project in the Suez Canal zone tomorrow in the face of Egyptian official opposition and demands for delay.

The bridge is to bypass a friction area near Suez where a bloody clash occurred Tuesday. The Egyptians say 50 Egyptians were killed—two British servicemen were wounded.

The bridge will shorten the distance between the British garrison and its water filtration plant on the narrow Sweetwater Canal. The plant has been frequently attacked by Egyptians.

SEEK COOPERATION
The British zone commander, Lt. Gen. Sir George Erskine, said he is through dealing with Egyptian authorities on the question of reducing friction between Egyptians and his troops in the zone—unless the Egyptians become more cooperative.

"The future lies in the hands of the Egyptians," he told a press conference. "... we are not looking for trouble and we are doing everything possible to avoid it. But we must meet violence with action."

LATE PLEA
The Egyptian provincial governor, Abdel Hady El Ghazaly Bey, made a last-minute plea late today to Brig. W. D. C. Green, British commander in the Suez City district, to stay the bridge building but to no avail.

Greenhouse told the governor Gen. Erskine's order for a bridge would be carried out. The governor wanted to refer the matter to the national government in Cairo. There has been one 24-hour postponement already.

ALLABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Behind the bars of Kingston Penitentiary, convicts are fixing Christmas toys for poor children.

Many a little fellow in a shabby room will ride a red wagon because a public enemy put a wheel and a coat of paint on it.

A new doll through the courtesy of a hard-faced man doing time for crimes of violence.

The boys in the Big House are not generally looked upon as kindly citizens. Yet they are giving their spare time (one thing they do have in abundance) to make Christmas brighter for children held in the wider prison of poverty.

In Santa's locked and barred workshop, hands that smashed open safes and forged checks are fumbling to mend worn and broken playthings.

Santa's helpers must bend to the task with a feeling that it is an appropriate one, because they themselves have been somewhat worn and broken by a society that bounced them around for a while and tossed them into a state closet.

But who is there to mend a human spirit, once it has been broken?

One of the convicts may think of his own children on the outside, and how they will rush to the Christmas tree for the presents that he should be able to wrap and leave there in the quiet night, when they are all asleep.

Another may remember how it felt to be a boy, and load earth on a toy dump truck just like the one he is fixing. He may look back over wasted years and see himself building make-believe roads in a dirty slum yard, before too much of the mud of the world was rubbed in his face.

Another may picture himself as he once was—a solitary boy kicking stones in an alley, for want of something better to do. And it may occur to him that if someone had taken the trouble to fix a toy dump truck for him, he would not now be in Kingston Penitentiary.

Langford Cubs have solved their housing problems for the time being, but they are plugging for a new hall of their own next year.

R. E. Lawrance, chairman of Langford Scout committee, called on me the other day, with Mrs. Lawrance, who is secretary-treasurer of the group.

Mr. Lawrance said the Cubs will meet in the old fire hall, which has been rented from Langford Community Club. They already have some money, materials and a site for a new hall which is to be built on Millstream Road.

They need more money and materials and, of course, a lot of labor. Already given or promised are the site, some lumber, doors, windows and some hardware. Needed, among other things, are nails, bricks, shiplap, and flooring.

Mr. Lawrance was anxious to point out that he wasn't one of those who complained recently about the lack of a Cub hall.

R.C.N. Tug Towing Minesweeper Here

A risky towing job is now being tackled by the Royal Canadian Navy's auxiliary tug Clifton.

She left Long Beach, Cal., Thursday night with a 136-foot former United States minesweeper in tow. The vessels are due at Esquimalt some time within a week, depending on weather conditions. On her way to Long Beach from Esquimalt the Clifton was caught in several bad gales.

The wooden minesweeper is similar to those now being built in Canadian shipyards for the R.C.N. In this area she will be used to train naval personnel for that type of vessel. Those same men will soon be manning the

Figures Show Lower Total Of Unemployed

Total of unemployed persons in Victoria continues to be lower than at the same time last year, the weekly report of the National Employment Office shows.

In the men's section, there are still a few hard-to-fill jobs, including architectural draughtsman, hull draughtsman, radio operator with second-class certificate, and body and fender mechanic, but most other jobs are being filled promptly from applications on file.

Normal demand for pre-Christmas women workers has not yet developed, but the need for single experienced typists and stenographers continues.

Inspector Plans To Summons Delinquents

About 100 delinquent trade and taxi licensees and 40 who have failed to pay road and poll taxes will receive summonses at the end of next week.

License Inspector William Wallis said yesterday the offenders had received several notices.

"We have no alternative but to lay charges," he said.

Maximum fine for non-payment of road tax is $25 plus court costs, and for poll tax, $10 plus court costs, tax collector T. G. Harris said.

Trades licensees bring in about $3,000 a year to the city treasury.

Teamsters May Renew Attack on Ban

The General Teamsters' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) may make another bid to have a labor council ban lifted from Stewart and Hudson Ltd.

The union has an agreement with the firm which is under a patronage ban by the T.L.C. and C.C.L. councils. The T.L.C. council this week voted 18 to 16 against removing the ban, although the Teamsters' Union is an affiliate.

The vote was so close that the question may be raised again at the council, union spokesman Robert Milliken said yesterday.

He said, however, that the decision will be made Thursday by a union membership meeting.

Milliken earlier this week threatened his union's withdrawal from the council. This also will be discussed at the meeting, he added.

Ford Refuses to Rehire 26 "Causes" of Strike

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP).—The Ford Company of Canada today flatly refused to reinstate 26 men whose firing Monday touched off a strike which has lasted 10,000.

The statement, signed by Rhys M. Sale, Ford president, said that since "some employees have felt free to disregard the orders of their supervisors . . . to slow down production by every device they could think of," the firings must stand.

Mr. Sale's statement was issued following the break-up of a meeting between company spokesmen and officials of Local 200, the United Automobile Workers of America (U.A.W.), who insisted on the rehiring of the 26 as a first condition in ending the four-day-long strike.

The issue of the 26, named by the company as "ring leaders" in wildcat work stoppages last week, has overshadowed the underlying cause of the strike—the six-month failure of union-company negotiators to work out a 1951 wage contract. Last year's contract, due to expire May 29, is still in force.

Both union and company officials had hoped that a conciliation board report, issued late Monday, might prove a basis for negotiations to end the strike. But a union membership meeting Tuesday day voted unanimously to demand the reinstatement of the 26 discharged men. In negotiations, the union has been asking for a 30-cent-an-hour increase on a basic rate of $1.32. The board recommended increases totalling 13 cents.

U.K. Backs Reds In U.N. Deadlock

PARIS, Dec. 7 (AP).—Britain disclosed tonight she has lined up alongside the Soviet bloc favoring White Russia rather than American-backed Greece for a U.N. Security Council seat.

Some other western countries obviously are doing the same, but are keeping silent about it. The 60-country organization was split down the middle in an eight-secret ballot Thursday.

United States delegation sources declined comment. Government officials in London said Britain voted for White Russia under an unwritten "gentleman's agreement" of 1946, an agreement the Americans contend to end the strike. But a union membership meeting Tuesday

Blind Man Robbed Of Dollar Each Day

VANCOUVER, Dec. 7 (CP).—A blind man reported to police today that he has been robbed of $1 a day for the last 15 days.

William Carmichael, who stands daily on the corner of two busy downtown streets, said that each day between 7 a.m. and noon a dollar bill has been removed from the tin which he holds in his hand.

East Coast Frigate Aids U.S. Blood Bank

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP).—Officers and men of H.M.C.S. Swansea—first Canadian warship ever to visit Washington—volunteered 100 per cent today to donate blood to the Red Cross during their visit.

The frigate, with nine officers and 132 men, is en route to Bermuda on a three-week training cruise. She arrived here Thursday from her home base at Halifax.

Nose Gear Buckles As Jet Bomber Lands

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 7 (AP).—A four-engine jet reconaissance bomber made an emergency landing near Stroud, Okla., early today. None of the three men crew was injured, although the nose gear buckled.

The story of a Vancouver family, the wealthy Dunsmuirs—eratic, entertaining, and each frustrated to the core. Their actions are wildly improbable and yet logically motivated, and John Cornish tells about them with all the wit and charm, but without the malice of the early Waugh novels.

It is a vastly entertaining novel, and a moving one—a story told with humour and understanding.

U.K. Commons Begins Long Recess

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Reuters).—Parliament adjourned tonight for a long-Christmas recess to give Prime Minister Churchill and his ministers time to get on top of Britain's troubled affairs.

The Labor party—defeated in the Oct. 25 general election—left Westminster disgruntled. Labor leaders were angry with Churchill for doubling the usual length of the recess, which will last until Jan. 29.

But the Conservative leader was unrepentant. He did not disguise his reason for lengthening the vacation—to give the new ministry a spell in which it can concentrate on problems of outstanding urgency.

During the break he will fit in a trip to the United States next month to discuss defense, economic and other top subjects with President Truman. He will also visit Ottawa.

Churchill, when he took office, decided something must be done quickly about Britain's economic dilemma—a deficiency in her overseas balance of payments at the rate of about $1,700,000,000 a year.

It was a bitter blow to the Conservative leader that he had to take over with a majority of fewer than 20—it is for the moment 17 over all other parties.

But in practice the majority has worked more effectively than the Tories could have foreseen. The new government in the last month has kept itself easily on top. In most votes there have been more Labor than Conservative absentees.

There has been no really deep-seated bitterness in the new parliament so far. But there will be after the resumption—when the Conservatives bring in their promised bill to denationalize the iron and steel industry, which Labor transferred to state ownership.

The dominion of Pakistan has about 21,000,000 acres devoted to rice growing.

Island Prince Gains Drydock

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Dec. 7 (CP).—British Columbia Steamship Co. freighter Island Prince is in drydock here after being towed 50 miles from the spot where she was beached.

The wooden ship was hoisted in her port side Tuesday night when she collided with the fishpacker Chilco Lake 60 miles south of here.

After the collision a skeleton crew fought desperately to keep the ship afloat until it could be beached. It was finally put aground in Lowe Inlet.

Before she was refloated water had crept as high as her lifeboats.

Today Max Sievert, skipper of the Armour Salvage tug F. H. Phillen, pumped out the ship and put a temporary patch over the hole before refloating her. The Chilco Lake was towed in previously.

Seaway Toll Still Unsettled

OTTAWA, Dec. 7 (CP).—Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway authority will have power to impose tolls on both domestic and foreign ships using the seaway, but no rate has yet been proposed.

This was made known today as legislation providing for establishment of the Crown agency to construct and administer the seaway was given first reading in the Commons.

The seaway authority will consist of three men appointed by the federal government.

Living Costs Up in October

OTTAWA, Dec. 7 (CP).—Living costs declined slightly in Winnipeg during October, but increased in eight other regional cities, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Eggs and meats were lower and potatoes higher in all eight cities. Rents were higher at all centres.

The regional cost-of-living index for Nov. 1, with Oct. 1 figures in brackets, based on 1935-39 equals 100:

Halifax, 178.4 (178.2); Saint John, N.B., 185.8 (185.1); Montreal, 197.4 (196.4); Toronto, 186.5 (185.8); Winnipeg, 183.0 (183.1); Saskatoon, 187.5 (187.0); Edmonton, 182.3 (181.9); Vancouver, 192.0 (190.0).

Mr. Bennett the Leader

MR. W. A. C. BENNETT'S espousal of the Social Credit Party may turn out to be the best thing that could have happened for the Progressive Conservatives, to whom he had long been a source of embarrassment. His defection from the Progressive Conservatives to become a House leader without a single follower is a different matter for the electors of Kelowna, however. Having voted for a member of one party, for the time being pledged to the coalition administration, they now find themselves represented in the legislature by a man who has put his name to an entirely different political doctrine, one to which they may be strongly opposed.

From the point of view of political ethics this is something which Mr. Bennett will have to take up with his own conscience. A legislator is elected to represent his riding, to watch its interests. There is nothing to say that a man cannot change his party allegiance after he has been elected, or that he must forfeit his seat if he quits the party favored by a majority of his constituents. What Mr. Bennett has done is perfectly legal. Yet the fact remains that Kelowna returned a Progressive Conservative coalitionist, and it is open to question that Mr.

Bennett can claim now to represent those who elected him in the fullest meaning of the word.

If a member loses faith in the party to which he belongs, and in the administration, the honorable thing for him to do is to resign from that party. Mr. Bennett has done so, and his motives must be assumed to be sincere. Nevertheless, in recent years of his political career he has shown a marked resemblance to the boy who demanded his hat back when the team wouldn't make him captain. There will be many who will ask whether he has joined the Socials because of belief that by doing so he can best represent his riding, or to satisfy an overweening desire to be the leader of something, even if only a group with no other representation in the legislature.

In another respect Mr. Bennett has placed himself in a peculiar position. It is only a short time ago that he was shouting at the government to resign because it had lost a split vote by-election in Esquimalt, and therefore in his view had lost the confidence of the provincial electorate. Now, after forsaking the party in which his riding had sufficient confidence to elect him, he apparently thinks it is quite all right to retain his own seat.

Many More Are Needed

THERE is some satisfaction to be drawn from the latest population figures issued by the bureau of statistics. These show that in the realm of personnel Canada grew more noticeably during the past decade than ever before. As at June last the Dominion's population was found to be nearly 14 millions, an increase of some two-and-a-third millions over the census figure of 1941. In the matter of counted heads the nation is advancing.

Related to the vast expanse of the country the growth is not at all spectacular, however. At this rate the 20th century would close with the population still below the 30-million mark, and that point is 50 years away yet. Long before that, if the full resources of the land are to be worked for the benefit of the people, this country should be supporting a much larger population than the present ratio would produce. There is room for many more than will issue from natural increase, and vigorous immigration policies are greatly to be desired.

As for the argument that newcomers take jobs away from those already here, the best proof in rebuttal is that Canada was an unproductive wilderness until people moved in on it from afar. It is people who make jobs, not the other way round. Natural resources are paper assets until human hands get to work at them. There must obviously be a system of selection, so that newcomers are of a type able and willing to help in the development of the country, but this vast land should be capable of absorbing at least twice as many immigrants as are currently reaching the shores of Canada.

Too Much Authority

WE agree with The Toronto Telegram when it says that a bill before the House of Commons to enable the minister of Public Works to make contracts at his own discretion without calling publicly for bids is going too far. Should the measure pass, this would put absolute control in the hands of a single ministry to make whatever bargain it liked with bids received in private. Public tenders, presumably on public works, would no longer be called, and any system of cost-plus contract that the department liked to favor would become legal. Not only is that a wasteful method of achieving a result for the Crown, but also it is a clear suppression of public right in connection with work of a public nature.

The precedent will be cited, no doubt, of wartime contracts under the ministry of defense, where a large number of things had to be acquired in a hurry. Even then, there was very considerable waste in the process, and this is not wartime. What kind of a case the administration at Ottawa can make out for the proposed legislation remains to be seen, but one can think of nothing in today's circumstances that calls for the elimination of open, public competition in all Crown contracts, where the taxpayers must pay the resultant bill. The Telegram calls the amendment dangerous. With that we agree.

"NATIONAL PENSIONS"

Sir.—I notice that the word "universal" is being applied regularly to designate the new old-age pensions which are to be effective Jan. 1, 1952.

It does seem to me that the word "universal" is too all-embracing and hardly quite correct.

Would not the term "national pensions" be better, for after all the pensions will be paid to Canadians only? I think we can call Canada a nation of people.

MEXICAN FIESTA

Sir.—As president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital, and on behalf of the members, I wish to thank the citizens of Victoria for their splendid response to our Mexican Fiesta.

Our final gross receipts are now $2,931.72, which will be used in our work for the veteran patients at the hospital.

This could not have been accomplished without the wholehearted support of not only the people of Victoria, but also the merchants, from whom most generous contributions were received.

We are also very grateful to the press for the excellent publicity given to our project, which in itself played a great part in making the fiesta such an outstanding success.

COALITION STORMS

Sir.—In last Sunday's Colonist there was a heading: "P.C. branch widened local delegate reports." Evidently over a question of policy by Colonel Drew.

Colonel Drew led the Conservatives to victory in Ontario some time ago, before he was chosen as the logical Conservative federal leader. He must be aware of the deplorable state of the old parties in British Columbia. Thus his suggestions:

"If recovery is the main issue leading to ultimate victory at the polls, and order out of chaos, the question of leadership is of supreme importance. If a party leader is unpopular no party can go before an electorate and expect to win an election. Both leaders of the almost defunct and obsolete Coalition party seem to be unable to realize that personality and popularity achieve major results far more than certain dictatorial methods that they have utilized during their term

IN UNITED KINGDOM

Sir.—As a recent emigrant I wish to comment on the conditions in England recently referred to by a speaker and the assertion that they are getting on with the job of rebuilding and not worrying about war.

It is evident there is a great deal of dissension, and I believe these are two extremes of opinion, each becoming increasingly antagonistic towards the opposite viewpoint.

Persons who possess an inherent characteristic to avoid unpleasantness and choose the line of least resistance are subservient to Communism, and subjecting themselves into a position where they have nothing to live for, consequently nothing to die for. They are embarrassed and avoid discussing the possibility of war, abruptly terminating such conversation as war-mongering.

The other point of view is held by those who have retained their self-respect.

With regard to rebuilding it is probably a question as to what is being achieved by such individual collectively. Those who were conscientious have little incentive or inclination to work enthusiastically.

It is to be hoped the democratic form of law and order will ultimately prevail.

PRECIPITATION

Sir.—Re Mr. Lamerton's letter regarding precipitation and rain gauges. I think Mr. Lamerton would discover that no matter at what angle the rain falls the same amount descends on the ground. According to his letter, if the wind blew strong enough we would have no rain, which of course is absurd.

Bait for the trap in Asia

Oil History

By FRANK KELLEY

ABOUT the time most Southern Albertans were inclined to be more or less jubilant over the roaring of natural gas at Bow Island (where it was unleashed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company while searching for water), and oil sufficiently refined to be used in motor cars of the day gushed out of a well in the Turner Valley field, the Canadian Department of Mines issued a very comprehensive publication entitled "Petroleum and Natural Gas Resources of Canada."

There was so much covered, so many pages of illustrations and map inserts showing geologic structures from the Atlantic to the Pacific, that the whole took two somewhat bulky volumes to divulge all the information then extant. The work was issued in 1915. Once upon a time I had both volumes. Some forgetful borrower has No. 1, evidently. Volume 2, however, contains the detailed record of the oil search in all parts of Canada prior to the year of the book's issue.

According to the record every province has had its interested quota of persistent searchers since oil was first struck at Oil Springs and Petrolia, in Ontario. Oil "signs" have been found wherever the geologic formations are favorable, that is, in every Canadian province; but tapping a flow of either oil or gas in commercial quantities does not always follow. Quoting from the book, at the date of publication, no oil in commercial quantities had ever been found in Nova Scotia; nor were either discovered on Prince Edward Island, although wells were put down in both those Maritime provinces.

New Brunswick produced a bit of oil and a lot of gas, as much as 7,000,000 cubic feet per day of the latter. Wells were drilled in Quebec, where oil seeps were an old story, as far back as 1844; but up until 1915 anyway neither oil nor gas could be found commercially worthwhile. Saskatchewan was a field for exploration, too. Gas was found, but no petroleum.

Manitoba, apparently, could not find enough of either commodity to become an active producer, although extensive drilling had been carried out. The oil industry of Alberta is fairly well known to British Columbians, particularly the chapters dealing with recent developments there. The book tells a lot about the various fields tested prior to 1915.

It also relates how the Canadian Pacific Railway Company pioneered gas development when digging for water near Medicine Hat in 1886; and of the same company's tapping the Bow Island gas reservoir also, when drilling for water.

Development of Ontario oil fields followed close upon the opening of the Pennsylvania fields. In fact, so the book states, in 1857 a well was drilled in Ontario before successful results had been reported from that state.

Of British Columbia the book had nothing to crow about; but let us hope the next publication of a like kind will have some brighter chapters devoted to this province.

The book does state something (not at all strange maybe). I had never heard about: "A well put down by the Canadian Government near Victoria, B.C., to a depth of 1,840 feet showed quantities of gas at several horizons, but no oil indications." It also gives a table or "log" of the boring; but states nothing about when or where. I do remember drills working over 40 years ago near Muir Creek, Sooke, the company principal, a Mr. Marshall, told me he was satisfied if oil existed thereabouts it would be found seaward under the waters of the Strait.

Reports From Ottawa

THOMAS Nicholas Phelan is a somewhat cherubic looking individual with alert blue eyes and little hair who both appears and acts years younger than his 70.

This morning, as almost every morning in the last few weeks, he is alternately sitting quietly, listening to the play of question and answer in the parliamentary committee on resale price maintenance, and firing sharply pointed questions of his own at the uncomfortable witnesses.

As senior counsel for the committee, Phelan gets $300 a day.

Each of the 36 members of parliament who compose the committee gets about $60 a day for every day parliament sits. So understandably enough, they tended to look askance at Phelan's fee. But that was before he swung into action.

Phelan is one of Toronto's ablest lawyers. It was he, for example, who helped compile evidence against nine big glass companies, and then prosecuted and got convictions against them on the strength of that evidence. They were fined $15,000 and costs last year for violations of the law against combines.

Thus it was natural that he should be retained by the parliamentary committee investigating resale price maintenance, a practise which the government intends to make unlawful under the Combines Act.

To assist Phelan, the committee also hired Guy Favreau of Montreal as junior counsel, at $150 a day. Favreau was junior counsel in the government's efforts to deport Count de Berninville, and then gathered evidence and acted as junior Crown counsel in the successful prosecution of several match companies for violations of the Combines Law.

Committeemen, shocked at the size of Phelan's fee, first realized he might be worth that much when J. W. Preston, secretary-manager of The Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, took the witness stand.

Phelan: What are the activities of your association in the area of sale and distribution?

Preston: We do not have anything to do with sale and distribution as an association.

Phelan: Or price?

Preston: Or price, as an association.

Phelan: Is the Board of Commercial Interests a committee of your organization?

Preston: Yes.

Phelan: What is the function of that board?

Preston: To teach our members to be up-to-date merchandisers as well as up-to-date operators, to have their stores clean and up-to-date, in fact to be modern.

Phelan: Have they any interest in matters of price?

Preston: No, they have not.

Phelan then quoted from "Western Druggist" of August, 1950: "The increased profit margin of Minard's Liniment and Bromo Seltzer which are being announced—or have been announced this very month—are concrete examples of direct financial benefit to our members and demonstrates the effectiveness of the work of the B.C.I." Then he asked, what is the B.C.I.?

Preston: Board of Commercial Interests.

From that point on, Preston's testimony carried little weight with the committee, and most of the M.P.'s conceded willingly that Phelan had earned his $300 that day.

The King's Shadow

(From The Ottawa Journal)

LORD Alexander, addressing the English Speaking Union in New York this week, offers his American audience some striking explanation we have seen of the status of the Governor-General in the Dominion of Canada. On this point he said:

"The title of governor-general is a misleading term since I am neither governor nor general. I am the personal representative of our monarch, the King."

"I am above party politics in the country to which I am accredited, as our King is above party politics in the United Kingdom."

"I have no connection at all with the government of the day in London. My official contacts and channels of communications are with Buckingham Palace only—the seat of His Majesty the King. I act on, and only with, the advice of my Canadian ministers."

"Those of you who realize the position of our King as a constitutional monarch will readily follow my position as his shadow in Canada. It is quite clear and simple and there is nothing more in it than that."

It is characteristic of Lord Alexander's modesty that he describe himself as "a shadow" of the King. He is that, of course, in the constitutional sense. But beyond that His Excellency is a great man in his own right, and we have no doubt at all that the English-Speaking Union is fully conscious of his dual and distinguished identity.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A six-year-old was getting ready for his first day of school, and his mother was very sad at the thought of her baby growing up and leaving her every day. As they drove toward the school, the child turned to his mother, consolingly. "Don't take it so hard, Mom. Just as soon as I learn to read the funnies by myself, I'll quit."

Pulling out of Korea with honor naturally presents some difficulties to the Chinese Reds, who look none in.

The destruction of a grocery ware house by fire suggests to the busy bride a new accessory to gracious living—the pre-burnt dinner.

An old lady was going down a coal mine for the first time. As the cage descended, she noticed how she and the rest of the party were dependent upon a single rope to which it was attached.

"Do you think it's quite safe?" she asked a miner, as she glanced at the rope.

"Safe as the bank," returned the miner. "There's nothing to be afraid of. These ropes are guaranteed to last 12 months and this one ain't due to be renewed until tomorrow."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE carving season is almost at hand. Most men look forward with considerable pleasure to the dissection of a Christmas turkey and a New Year goose. But there are house-husbands who literally fear the job of carving, the reason being that they must carve it.

Jim Boa, one of Canada's greatest marksmen, has been carving ever since he was a boy, a disability in his father's wrist having promoted him to the job while still in short pants.

To stand up or not to stand up whilst carving is the first item of etiquette. Jim Boa votes for standing up. In the first place, the carver who stands to do the job receives the full aroma of the turkey, a pleasure he is entitled to in compensation for his work. In the second place, at a festive board, the sight of the host standing up to dispense his hospitality has an old-fashioned and homely quality about it that stimulates the spirit of the gathering. Everybody watches the carver; very well, then, make a ceremony of it.

The procedure is: First cut off the near leg, and there you have the dark meat at hand. Then start slicing the breast, being careful not to remove the wing.

"Leaving both wings on to the last," says Jim Boa, "is the secret of keeping the bird upright on the platter. There is a great temptation, in carving, to do the near side entire, wing and all. But the wings serve as proper pedestals to hold the bird erect. It is when the wing is removed that the bird falls over on the platter. And then disaster soon follows."

There is a school of carving which works on the far side of the bird first. But this exposes the operation to the guests at table. Stick to the near side, leaving the beautiful golden view of the far side to the audience. And above all, leave the wings on as long as possible.

There you have it.

Human Rights

By ERIC C. LAWRENCE

AS Americans join in the third worldwide celebration of Human Rights Day on December 10, they will be paying heartfelt tribute to ideals that represent the basic tradition of their own national life.

This day was set aside two years ago to honor the first anniversary of the adoption by the United Nations of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. It has been proclaimed as an annual day of rededication to this charter of the basic freedoms of mankind everywhere.

The ideals set forth in the U.N. document have a tradition with Americans that is older than the nation itself. The first settlers came to this continent in search of freedom to worship as they chose. Hand in hand with the spiritual concept of individual freedom grew the ideals of social and political freedom, all of which are embodied in the early colonial documents guaranteeing these liberties.

Following the Revolutionary War in which these 13 American colonies established their independence, they formed a union to preserve their hard-won liberty. One of the first acts of the new U.S. Congress was to adopt the Bill of Rights proclaiming the fundamental, God-given rights of free men, Cornerstone of individual freedom in the United States, it guarantees the "unalienable rights" of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

But liberty for themselves alone has always fallen far short of the American ideal. Believing that only a free world can be a peaceful world, they have given unstinting devotion to the cause of extending freedom to peoples suffering under tyranny wherever despots sought to impose it.

President Truman voiced this ideal when he called upon his countrymen to participate in the first Human Rights Day. At that time, the President said, "the attainment of basic rights for men and women everywhere is essential to the peace we are seeking."

The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was another spokesman for the American ideal of universal human liberty. In his Declaration of the Four Freedoms, President Roosevelt proclaimed: "Freedom means the supremacy of human rights everywhere. Our support goes to those who struggle to gain those rights and keep them."

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights represents mankind's most recent advance in this struggle. It is particularly fitting that Mr. Franklin Roosevelt should have been one of the chief architects of this document. Under her leadership and that of the eminent scholar Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, and the great French humanist René Cassin, the United Nations drafted and approved, by a vote of 48 to 0, "this common standard of achievement for all peoples and all nations."

It is interesting to note that not even the Soviet Union and its satellites dared to outrage the conscience of the world by voting against the declaration. They signified their lack of support by refusing to take any stand.

Today the freedom-loving peoples of the world are faced with what is perhaps history's greatest threat to human liberties. They are resolved to meet that threat peacefully if possible; by force only if modern despots resort to war to enslave all humanity. It is in that spirit of unity and determination that they will celebrate Human Rights Day.

Municipality Granted Use of Library

Main business of the regular monthly meeting of the board of the Victoria Public Library was a request by the municipality of Central Saanich for full use of the library by its residents.

for Central Saanich as for all other municipalities to pay a representative share of the operating and housing costs.

It was also announced by board members that the library was well within its budget for the year so far.

The library will be closed both Christmas and New Year's Eve at 6 p.m. and will be closed Christmas Day and Boxing Day.

Montreal Stores to Defy Holy Day Closing Law

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (CP). Montreal stores today made plans to crack down on violators of the new city store-closing bylaw. The bylaw, which orders stores to close on Roman Catholic holy days, gets its first test tomorrow. First of the Immaculate Conception.

A group of the "largest mid-town department stores" has defied this group, which includes the big stores of Eaton's, Simpson's, Macys and Ogilvy's, has started a legal action against validity of the bylaw. There were some authoritative reports in city hall that a second conviction for infraction of the bylaw may mean padlocking of the store.

The bylaw provides specific exemptions—tobacco stores, drug stores, newspapers, flower shops and such.

One small store, off the beaten path of the big shopping district, has this sign in a window: "Eaton's is open tomorrow, then so are we." Some other small stores may follow the same course.

Chain grocery stores will be closed, not necessarily because of the bylaw but by precedent of other years.

The group of big stores opposing the bylaw carried their usual advertisements in today's newspapers. Stores which ordinarily close part-time Saturdays reminded readers that during the Christmas season the stores are open all day Saturdays.

Newspapers—these same stores merely ran advertisements without reference to opening or closing. One store, which will be open tomorrow, featured bargains for Monday and Tuesday.

McKinnon Scores

VANCOUVER, Dec. 7 (CP)—Jack McKinnon came through with the winning basket tonight as Vancouver Clover Leafs edged Alberni Athletics 59-57 in a men's senior A basketball game here.

Favored Jim Wells and Vince Martin, seeded No. 2, will meet for the men's singles title. Wells reached the final last night by disposing of Stan Richard, 15-9, 15-9, but Martin was given a stiff battle by Jack Parker before prevailing, 9-15, 15-9, 15-7.

It will be Libby Boak and Clare King in the women's singles final. Miss Boak was given a strong fight by unseeded Jean Baillie before winning out, 12-14, 11-4, but Miss King romped into the final with an easy 11-0, 11-4 triumph over Joy Wasson.

The men's doubles final may steal tonight's spotlight. It will pit Richard and Dan Francis, who ousted Peter Peacock and Parlow, 16-7, 15-10, against Norm Lambie and Stu Reid, who trimmed Wells and Parker, 15-8, 15-8.

Judge Frees Players; Blames College

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (INS)—Judge Saul Street freed three point-rigging basketball stars today, placing the blame for their "moral delinquency" on the university, its president, David Owen, and its athletic boosters.

The same general sessions jurist who recently sentenced 14 metropolitan New York stars and warned of an "atomic athletic scandal" to come, today denounced the "Bradley system" of college basketball.

Let off with suspended sentences, free of any probationary provisions, were all-American Gene "Squeaky" McHortor, Bill Mann and George "Mike" Chasak, Bradley standouts all.

But before passing on their cases, Judge Street tossed a verbal brickbat that brought an immediate denial from President Owen in Peoria, Ill.

"Everything I have done has been strictly honest and sincere and for the best of the school, the players and the game of basketball," Owen declared.

The university head was described by Street as a man "who no doubt confused public relations with academic administration," who "acquiesced in the players' subsidization" and "traveled extensively with members of the team while their studies were ignored."

The judge aimed at the Bradley Boosters Club in Peoria for "kicking in financial contributions of up to $100 a gift to members of the basketball team."

He blasted the university as one that presented "a typical example of commercialization and over-emphasis," including "illegitimate recruiting, evasion of scholarship standards, corruption of the athlete, the coach and the college official and impairment of the standards of integrity of the college."

Dr. Owen, Judge Street said, once told player Mann not to honor a subpoena to testify as a witness for the state of Colorado in a homicide case. The judge said:

"The subpoena called for Mann's appearance on a day when the basketball team was scheduled to play... the informing."

Winnipeg	6	17	2	82	10 1/2

Next games, tonight, Seattle at Tacoma, Vancouver at Victoria, Calgary at New Westminster, Edmonton at Saskatoon.

Victoria Cougars took 40 minutes last night to overcome the effects of a lay-off since last Saturday but they did it in time to bounce Calgary Stampedeers, playing like the last place club they are, 5-2, in a P.C.H.L. game before about 5000 fans at Memorial Arena.

Victory boosted the Cougars into a three-point lead over Edmonton's sixth place Flyers and four points ahead of Vancouver's ambitious Canucks. Canucks play here tonight in an important "four pointer" in which a victory would leave Cougars well ahead in the battle for a playoff spot and at an even 500 rating.

SHOULD BE GOOD: Defense for the sorely pressed Balmont would leave them in a position where they will need a winning streak to get close. It's all added incentive for what promises to be a tousing battle in which the Canucks will be seeking their first away-from-home triumph. The Cougars would like to get even for that 10-2 lacing at Vancouver last week.

Up until the third period, last night's game gave fans little to enthuse about but the Cougars came on with a last-minute rush which saved the situation.

STAMPS NOT MUCH: Passing badly and lacking any semblance of teamwork, the Cougars couldn't get untracked in the first two periods and only a rather woeful show by the Stampede allowed the Victorians to enter the final 20 minutes all square at 2-2, even though they had the best scoring chances.

It was a different story after the second intermission. The Cougars poured 17 shots at Russ Dertell in the final period and showed some of the opportunism that marked earlier games.

LEAD TWICE: Calgary took the lead twice on rather cheap goals. The first came when George Agar backhanded an unnecessary rebound into the nets and the second when Shirley Wilson grabbed at a blue-line shot by Ernie Dierkes.

Reg Abbott tied it the first time.

That was about all that was certain last night with the Cougars and Canucks involved in a player scramble with Montreal Canadiens in the middle.

Late Thursday, a Canadian Press report stated that Lorne Davis was likely to be recalled from Vancouver by Buffalo but that the Bisons would then send Atanas in exchange. Then yesterday came the later report that the Canadians were sending Atanas to Victoria.

This was no sooner publicized than a telegram from Art Chapman, general manager at Buffalo, to the Cougars arrived stating that the Bisons had four injured players, including Ed Mazur, and that Atanas would be sent in the East over the week end at last.

The Cougars, who wouldn't mind ending up with Davis, who probably should have come to Victoria in the first place, general manager of the Canadians, and further developments could be expected some time today. Meanwhile, latest word from Vancouver last night stated Davis was leaving by plane for Buffalo early this morning.

Whether Davis will leave or whether he will be in either Victoria or Vancouver lively to night probably won't be known until tonight.

McMorrans Win

McMorrans' intermediate "B" boys scored a convincing 40-25 victory over Mount Tahoma Merchants in a Saanich and Suburban Basketball League game at the Lake Hill Community Hall Thursday. S. Dobbie took scoring honors with 18 points for the winners.

McMorrans' intermediate "B" girls defeated Saanichton junior girls 19-16 in an exhibition contest.

Mrs. M. White and Mrs. S. J. D. Crack finished in a deadlock with net scores of 79 in the turkey competition at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday.

Royals Soccer Team Includes Five Imports

New Westminster Royals will present a United Nations appearance when they oppose Victoria United in the benefit soccer game at Royal Athletic Park this afternoon. All proceeds from the game will go toward a fund to aid Elmer Flaaten, injured Norwegian forward of United.

Royals will have at least five newcomers in their lineup. Manager Aubrey Sanford announced yesterday that he would use the game to try out two Hungarian immigrants, Bert Belezany and Steve Kuruh. The Europeans arrived in Vancouver recently and worked out with St.

Andrews, but were not signed by the Scots.

Also appearing in the New Westminster lineup for the first time will be Bob Nicol and Tom Graham, both former Scottish players. Nicol was an inside forward with Kilmarock and Graham played wing forward for Glasgow junior Pollock club.

The fifth newcomer is Tommy Bruce, former United star. Sanford sought Bruce as a type forward early in the season and signed the opportunist last week. Bruce saw little action with United this season and transferred to Victoria City in the district league last month.

United officials report a good advance sale of tickets and expect to be able to turn over a large amount to Flaaten.

The Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association has provided its full support for the game, except an exhibition match between—Harris Cycles and Army, Navy and Air Force Vets, which will be played as a preliminary.

Royals Top Canucks 6-1, Quakers Clip Edmonton

The Flyers before 5000 fans, Neil Strain paced the Quakers with two goals and two assists as they boosted their margin over the fourth place Tacoma Rockets to four points with three games in hand.

Mainland Groups Favor Tidal Fishing Licenses

Each year about this time Lower Mainland fish and game clubs hold an annual meeting in Vancouver devoted to the discussion of new-angling recommendations. The 1951 meeting, attended by delegates from more than 20 clubs from Hope to Vancouver, met Saturday and produced some resolutions certain to create considerable controversy and meet with unyielding opposition.

By a vote of 14-7 the meeting approved a resolution banning the use of gang (or "Jack Lloyd") lake trolls having more than two blades and a rubber. This was done last year in the face of advice of biologists.

Delegates also voted in favor of a resolution reading "that residents shall not angle anywhere in the province (either tidal or non-tidal waters) without a license," and asked that resort owners and boat-rental agents keep a closer check on patrons "re maintaining of game laws."

Biggest outcry will doubtless come from salt-water sports fishermen, unalterably opposed to the principal of licensing sports fishing in tidal waters. While there are some arguments in favor of a license to cover all types of fishing, there can be no justification until some curbs—such as tonnage charges and limits—are put on commercial salmon fishing. It's hardly fair to ask the sports fisherman to pay for a license to fish in salt water when a commercial license can be purchased for a dollar which allows him to catch as many salmon as he wishes, and sell them in the bargain.

The resolution favoring the ban on gang trolls will also get some opposition. Although many anglers feel that they should be abolished and refuse to use them, they also believe that trolls should have the right to use them if they so wish. And, as one angler pointed out, Lower Mainland clubs would do well to abolish the use of trolls in their areas before cracking down on the use of gang trolls.

The third resolution is one that concerns only resort-owners and boat-rental establishments but it is certain that they will not react favorably to the suggestion that they be asked to police their customers. And no one can blame them for that.

Lower Mainland clubs will likely find no opposition to the resolution that "a new and concise fishing-law booklet be published and that streams and lakes be listed alphabetically and by districts."

Game and fishing laws that can be understood are long overdue. Even a corporation lawyer would have difficulty making sense out of the present hodge-podge.

There will be no argument, either, with the resolution calling for erection of conspicuous signs at fishing boundaries, or the one calling for intensification of the present steelhead investigation.

A protest over the Alcan project and its destruction of wildlife resources was referred to the provincial game convention, to be held in April.

Saanich Inlet Still Good

Fishing in Saanich Inlet remains good with grilse being taken regularly in quantity and an offering of small spring salmon. Harry Beard reports from the Anchorage Boathouse that fishing is "very good." Early risers have a good chance of hooking into a spring at the mouth of Tod Inlet and the grilse are to be found almost everywhere although Bamerton is still the favored area. Small springs have also been reported in the Mill Bay area near the marker. Small springs, particularly abalone, hucktail flies and, of course, the reliable gang troll and worm, are the recommended lures. Depth varies with one to four ounces usual. Springs are also a distinct possibility at daybreak between Hall's Boathouse and the island. With the end of the trout season, freshwater fishing is confined to steelhead. Reports are sketchy but a few have been taken near the mouth of the Chemainus River. Sea-run cutthroat and steelhead fishing is usually good at this time farther north but recent rains may temporarily stop fishing except in river mouths. Shotgun experts, many of whom have been doing well in their quest for ducks, will have a chance to bring home the Christmas dinner Sunday. That's the date of the annual turkey shoot at the North Saanich Rod and Gun Club. It's open to all scattergunners and there are other prizes as well as turkeys. Traps will be open for practice at 10 a.m. with competition starting about an hour later.

Ted and Tony Look Good In Trimming Aussie Pair

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 7 (AP)—America's new Davis Cup doubles combination of Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert looked like money in the bank in thrashing the Australian pair of Adrian Quist and Geoff Brown, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3, in the final of the Victoria tennis championships today.

The result never was in question after Ted and his young navy-helper rallied from being down, 1-4, in the opening set to win going away.

The pair, which will face Sweden in the interzone final here next Thursday, swept through four victories in the tournament without losing a set—all against Australian opponents.

The only thing they didn't do was to hang it on the Aussie's big team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor and they weren't given a chance to do that. Australia's cup selectors withdrew Frank and Ken from circulation.

The failure of Quist and Brown to make a better showing in today's quickie at least took Australia's cup selectors off the spot. Both were overlooked in naming the Aussie team and selectors would have been in unenviable positions if Adrian and Geoff had won.

With Americans safely home in the doubles, conjecture turned to the probable result of tomorrow's singles final between Dick Savitt and Sedgman. The perfect final brings together holders of three major grass court championships—American, Australian and Wimbledon.

On the brilliant form he displayed in defeating Vic Seixas yesterday Sedgman had to be given the nod, but nobody expects it to be easy.

Dickinson & Dunn, intermediate A leaders, will meet runners-up Scott & Pedon in tonight's revised feature game. Fans will see the city's two top younger quintettes in action and should be treated to a good exhibition of the hoop sport by two evenly-matched squads.

The preliminaries are both exhibition affairs. St. Louis College junior boys meet St. Louis College midget boys in the opener at 7 p.m. and Mount View High School intermediate B boys oppose Scott & Wright juniors an hour later.

Golf-- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

Notice, that today's player is going two ways at once. His left hip is swinging one way and his shoulders are rocking the other way. "X" marks the spot where the ball was. Now if draw a perpendicular line from the "X" you'll see that it will pass through the player's left shoulder. And this will tell you that the player has moved his head to the right as he swung down. The rocking chair movement—but it isn't golf. The best point about this golfer's swing is that his shoulders are rotating rather well. His left going up as his right goes down and under. His stance is all-right too but those good points are canceled by our player letting his right side sag and his head move back out of the position it had when he addressed the ball. Don't let the old rocking chair away get you.

Eddolls Takes Fill-In Job With Quakers

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—Frank Eddolls, captain of New York Rangers, will become temporary playing coach of the Quakers, New York City team, it was announced today.

Eddolls, 30-year-old defenseman and native of Lachine, Que., will replace Bill Cook, who has been appointed coach of the Rangers as successor to Neil Colville.

Rangers officials emphasized that Eddolls' appointment is only temporary and that a hunt is on for a suitable coach of the Quakers, New York City team.

Eddolls plan to leave here by air Monday for Saskatoon and will take over the team Tuesday.

The Rangers have been carrying six defensemen and Eddolls hasn't appeared in the team's last two games, so no replacement will be required for him.

Doctors have decided against an operation on the injured knee of Howie Meeker, Toronto Maple Leaf winger.

Huskies Triumph

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 7 (INS)—Washington scored an easy 60 to 52 victory over the U.C.L.A. basketball team in a pre-season game before 7,500 fans at Seattle tonight.

Washington, ranked third nationally in a coaches' poll, owed its victory mainly to better shooting and greater experience. Bob Houbregs, Washington's 6 foot 7 inch centre, led the scoring with 17 points.

Markets Start on Rise, Slip Back in Later Trade

By CP and AP

A late selling spurt took the price of a stock market rally in New York yesterday, but the market managed to end out a net gain.

The railroads assumed early leadership but were unable to carry through to the close. Most of the rest of the market backed down.

Definitely lower were oils.

Carpenters May Weigh Causes Of Construction Unemployment

By CP and AP

The provincial Council of Carpenters' annual convention may hear reports that unemployment in the construction industry is due to an influx of displaced persons, government home-building courses and other causes.

Victor Midgley, international representative for the Carpenters' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) at Victoria, said yesterday that increasing concern is being felt by his organization over hiring of displaced persons. It was felt in some cases they were given preference over local employees.

He indicated the problem was becoming province-wide.

Discussion and a resolution on the matter is expected from the convention at Vancouver Dec. 14 and 15, he said.

Two Firms Claim Ownership Of Territories' Oil Rights

By CP and AP

CALGARY, Dec. 7 (CP).—Ownership of oil rights on 500,000 acres of land in the Northwest Territories is claimed by two Calgary oil companies which staked the same land about the same time, each apparently, unknown to the other at the time.

The companies are preexisting their cases before federal commissioner Kenneth J. Christie, who will report his findings to resources minister Robert Winters.

California Standard Oil Co. and Sun Oil Co. both claim the land by reason of prior staking. The hearing opened in May River, N.Y.T., last Nov. 30 and has been moved to Calgary.

Duplication of the staking was not discovered until both companies filed permit applications with the resources department.

The land involved is a 10-mile-wide strip extending for 70 miles west of the Grimshaw-Hay River Highway and north from the 50th parallel, the Alberta-N.W.T. boundary.

Under regulations controlling the staking of oil lands in the Territories, it is necessary to place only one stake to validate one permit for a maximum of 64,000 acres of land. Sun Oil said it placed eight stakes.

Gas Held Vital To Anaconda

By CP and AP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP).—The United States Federal Power Commission was told today that importation of natural gas from Canada is necessary to prevent a cutback in metal production.

Attorney John C. Hauck of Butte, Mont., said Canadian gas is needed to permit the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. to continue producing metals needed for defense.

Anaconda produces manganese, copper and zinc at its Butte mines and in smelters at Great Falls and Anaconda.

The company wants gas from four southern Alberta fields.

Oil Holdings Given Credit For Activity

By CP and AP

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (CP).—Canadian Pacific Railway's large holdings of possible oil lands in western Canada is generally given as the explanation for heavy trading in its stock on Canadian and American stock exchanges.

The company's shares have caught attention several times in the last year or so because of its oilland holdings. The current move started in New York Thursday and spread to Canadian exchanges.

On New York, Toronto and Montreal exchanges Thursday a total of 130,000 shares was traded, with a value of around $4,700,000. In Toronto the stock advanced $3.37 to $36.62. The advance continued in forenoon trading today.

Present interest in C.P.R. following activity in New York in Northern Pacific Railway, which, in turn, followed establishment of production by Shell Oil Company in the Williston Basin of Montana, which spreads into the Dakotas and Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

At the end of 1950, C.P.R. had leased to oil companies 42,742 acres of land on which it holds oil rights and 11,285,742 acres were under reservation for exploration by various companies.

Rents, royalties and reservation fees brought revenue of $1,900,000 to the company in 1950, an increase of $254,000 over the previous year. No figures are available for this year.

Dollar Climbs Near 98 Cents In U.S. Funds

By CP and AP

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP).—A steady rise in the value of the free Canadian dollar at New York was attributed today to a demand for Dominion currency to purchase Canadian securities.

The Canadian dollar was quoted at 97.68¢ cents in relation to the United States dollar in New York today, a rise of 1 1/2 cents over the 96.43¢ of a week ago.

Banking circles said the demand was created especially by purchase of Canadian dollars to buy subscription rights or securities of Imperial Oil Company and Canadian Pacific Railway.

They explained that these purchases must be made in Canadian funds.

The Canadian dollar was set free to seek a level governed by supply and demand in October, 1950. The recent increase in value is one of the largest since it was freed of restrictions.

The fixed rate before October, 1950, was 90.9 cents in relation to the United States dollar.

The first day of free trading wound up with a closing price at New York at 94.43 cents.

Today's Dollar

The pound sterling was $2.87 1/8, down one cent from Thursday.

At HOME in the WOODS

Thoreau comes to life in the Canadian Rockies. This is a story of two wilderness-loving frontiersmen, who headed for the tall timber on the banks of the Peace River, British Columbia. There they found the peace and quiet they needed to write their book.

How they made themselves "At Home in the Woods" is the story of their life in the wilderness. It is a story of two men who found the peace and quiet they needed to write their book.

League Candidates Outline Platforms

Victoria police commission candidate William J. Hamilton last night admitted a slim platform, but assured electors he would do his best.

"The San Francisco League candidate in any campaign has a slim platform," he said. "I have ideas that I might put into effect if elected, but would not offer criticism of commissioners already in office."

"I believe we have as good a police force as any city in Victoria. If we haven't, I'm not in a position to say what should be done about it, until I have made a study of its internal affairs," he said.

LIGHT INDUSTRY

Another new N.P.L. candidate, J. Donald Smith, said that if elected as alderman he would try to encourage light industry in Victoria.

"Our revenue from industry is only 3.9 per cent of the value as against more than 20 per cent in other cities the same size," he said. "We have it now, so we must maintain and use it."

Another alderman candidate, Walter Skellings, seeking reelection, said that the arena issue is "water under the bridge," although he reminded his listeners that he was against the course followed by the city in building it.

DEBT REDUCTION

Majority candidate M. Aubrey Kent gave as his election pledge a long term reduction of the city's $11,000,000 debt. Some of it he said incurred as far back as 1892.

Seeking reelection to city council, Mrs. Margaret Christie outlined her extensive service in health work and gave as her main reason for seeking another term the completion of a 100-bed addition to the Victoria Nursing Home.

Snow Falls On Hump Of Highway

A heavy snowfall was reported last night in R.C.M.P. officers on the hump of the highway between Nanaimo and Alberni, with driving conditions hazardous.

Elsewhere on the Island no snow was reported except on mountains. The Malahat road "a few spots of ice" on it, police report, and otherwise driving was safe.

Post Office Again Warns Of Deadlines

Victoria's post office staff is braced for the big Christmas rush. Yesterday officials again reminded Victorians that early posted mail will reach destinations in time for Christmas Day if certain deadlines are met.

Other deadline: Maritimes December 10; Quebec and Ontario December 12; Manitoba, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta December 11; British Columbia December 15; local December 17.

Postal officials estimate that increased Christmas cards require two cents postage.

Loretta Clunk, a niece of Mr. Clunk, was sleeping upstairs. She smelled smoke and ran downstairs as the alarm was sounded.

Sign Charge Dropped As Jackson Battles

By THEVOR COLLINS

A scuffle in the courtroom and a call for order by Magistrate H. C. Hall yesterday highlighted the appearance of Robert G. Jackson, 1629 Rockland, to answer a charge of erecting a sign on his property without a permit.

He was locked up in the city jail Thursday when he failed to pay a $15 fine for harboring animals on his city property.

The 45-year-old man stamped into the crowded courtroom to be greeted by a request from James Proudfoot, city prosecutor, that the charge be withdrawn.

"This is a minor case and I will ask your honor's permission to withdraw it," Mr. Proudfoot said.

Nearly everyone in the courtroom looked disappointed. They had been expecting a spectacle of Thursday's session.

However, Jackson did not appear there.

He started out by telling Magistrate Hall that he had sent a letter to Mr. Proudfoot regarding the animals on his property and wanted a few days' extension before disposing of them.

"You have unlawfully put me in jail and the lawyers there to prove it," he declared to the magistrate.

"READ THE LETTER"

With a dramatic sweep of his hand he turned to Mr. Proudfoot and said: "Read the letter sir."

"The magistrate," he said, "is a true thief. I started Jackson with his letter to him."

The magistrate directed the clerk to read the letter. It was a request for a sign on the property.

"The sign on Jackson's property," reads "Harrison for Mayor."

"You may address the court," the magistrate directed.

"If the sign had said vote for Aubrey Kenton Dr. Hosten would I have been molested?" inquired Jackson.

"Is there anything else you wish to say?" asked Magistrate Hall.

"Is this a political issue or a civil issue?" Jackson asked looking directly at the magistrate.

Magistrate Hall asked Jackson to state his case.

The bidding:

4 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass
Pass Pass

South's jump to four diamonds was questionable despite the strength of his diamond suit and his distribution. After all, he had only one ace. North also let himself go in bidding six diamonds, but he had reason to feel that South was a little stronger.

West opened his top card of partner's club suit. Dummy's ace was put up and a diamond was led. Right then and there East, holding the blank diamond ace, was endplayed. He could not afford to lead a spade up to the jack, and he certainly could not afford to lay down the club king. So he elected to return a heart — but unfortunately for himself, he led the low heart.

South put up the heart queen and, when it held the trick, ran off all his trumps, keeping the spades, the heart ace and the club queen in dummy. East hung on to his original three spades and the club king, but when a heart was led to the ace, he was squeezed. He could not give up the club king and promote dummy's queen, so he let to a spade, and South proceeded to take the fulfilling tricks with the ace, king and eight of spades.

As long as East decided that his exit play at the third trick had to be in hearts, it would have been more judicious to lay down the heart king! This lead would have knocked out dummy's entry, the heart ace, before it would have value as a squeeze card and if East simply discarded logically thereafter, South would be forced to concede a spade trick.

Uncle Wiggily Story

UNCLE BUTTER'S JOKE

Uncle Wiggily was up in his bedroom of the hollow stump bungalow when Mr. Stubbail, the bear gentleman, brought a cart load of sand. He said it was to make a sand pile for his rabbit friend.

"This is the first I have heard of it," said Nurse Jane. The muskrat lady was in the bungalow kitchen making a cabbage pudding with carrot sauce for Uncle Wiggily's supper. "I'll call Mr. Longears. If you will wait just a moment, Mr. Stubbail."

"Thank you," answered the bear gentleman. "Wiggily said that when I dug my pen deeper this fall, so there would be room in it for all my winter hibernating sleep, that if I dug out any sand I didn't want to please bring it to him. So I have."

"It is a mystery to me," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But I suppose Uncle Wiggily knows what he is doing. Though why he wants a pile of sand is more than I can guess."

Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy went to the bottom of the front stairs and called:

"Oh, Mr. Longears! Mr. Stubbail is here with a cart full of sand. He says you asked him to bring it."

"Yes, I did, Nurse Jane," answered Uncle Wiggily. "And now I must build sweet Uncle Wiggily: "Tell Stubby to please wait. I'll be right down."

"What are you doing?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I am getting a clean handkerchief out for my pink, twinkling nose," the jolly rabbit gentleman answered.

"Ha! Ha! I didn't mean that," laughed Nurse Jane. "I mean what are you going to do with the sand Mr. Stubbail has brought?"

"I am going to make a sand pile," answered Mr. Longears. "Here I am coming down and I will tell you about it, Nurse Jane."

Having found a clean handkerchief in his room, Uncle Wiggily slid down the front stairs banister railing with a whizz, a whee, a zizz and a zam! The "zam" was when he hit "ker bunk!" the big post at the end of the railing.

"Where is my bear friend, Stubby?" asked Mr. Longears as he jumped off the "zaming" post.

"He is out in the back yard with a cart load of sand," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Fine and dandy!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I will show him where to dump the sand and then I will come in and tell you all about it."

Uncle Wiggily hopped out to

B.C. Bulb Business Booming

Business is booming for the bulb industry of British Columbia.

This year sales of larger bulbs are expected to total 2,700,000. Last year 2,400,000 were sold; the year before 1,900,000.

Neville Mayers presented these figures yesterday at an opening session of the B.C. Bulb Growers' Federation annual convention at Loughheed's Banquet Club. He is supervising inspector for the plant protection division of the provincial department of agriculture.

Ray Woodbridge, a director of the organization and operator of Vancouver Island's largest bulb farm at Brentwood, said more growers were needed to meet heavy domestic market demand.

In an afternoon discussion, Mr. Woodbridge told of recent federal government action which has prevented the dumping of cut flowers into Canada from other countries. Up to this year, he said, dumping of U.S. flowers into Canada at less than production cost had serious effects on the Canadian industry.

Because of new anti-dumping regulations, he continued, British Columbia expects to send much bigger shipments of flowers to eastern Canada next spring.

He said prices paid Canadian bulb growers for their product were the same today as in 1949, despite tremendously increased production costs. The problem had been met, he said, through mechanization.

Fred Conconi, secretary-treasurer of the federation, said bulb growers of the province were conducting a strong effort to increase variety of daffodil and tulip bulbs. "In the past the growers have catered mostly to the greenhouse trade. Now we're building up business directed to the household gardener."

Because of more favorable soil and climate, certain parts of B.C. are now producing better iris bulbs than those found in Holland, the convention was told.

Delegates from B.C. and Washington were welcomed yesterday morning by Capt. C. R. Wilson of Sidney, president of the federation. Ralph Macomber, of Bradner, B.C., heads those from the mainland.

Among federation directors, presenting reports yesterday were: Joseph Everett, Cloverdale; Leslie Brown, J. P. Savage and Mr. Macomber, all of Bradner, B.C.; W. E. Lake, Saanichton, and Mr. Woodbridge, Brentwood.

The convention continues today. At noon Finance Minister Herbert Anscombe will speak on "The Future of British Columbia." Dr. C. J. Gould, in charge of bulb investigations at Western Washington Experimental Station, Puyallup, Wash., will speak on bulb production in Holland.

Joseph Richard, Sr., will speak on merchandising, and Professor Walter Anderson of the University of British Columbia, on economic aspects of farming.

R. Macomber Named Head Of Bulb Group

Ralph Macomber of Bradner, B.C., yesterday was elected president of the B.C. Bulb Growers' Federation. He succeeds Capt. C. R. Wilson, Sidney, who was named vice-president for the forthcoming year.

Fred Conconi of Keating was re-elected secretary-treasurer by acclamation.

Directors are J. R. Savage and Leslie Brown, both of Bradner, B.C.; Ray Woodbridge of Brentwood and James Houlahan of Gordon Head. William McNally, of Keating, was elected auditor.

Less Wilt, More Sales

Contrary to popular belief, florists would welcome discovery of a chemical solution which would prolong the life of cut flowers.

"Many people think the florist industry would frown upon such a discovery," said Ray Woodbridge, director of the B.C. Bulb Growers' Federation, now holding its annual convention here.

"But if flowers lasted much longer, people would regard their chances as they would be buying flowers a lot more often."

Canada has a long way to go before becoming as flower-conscious as many other nations, he continued. "There are some countries where a workman takes home a bunch of flowers just about as often as he takes a loaf of bread."

Flowers can play important roles in both home and business, he said, "and we hope that this will become more widely realized as time passes."

Native Education
New Zealand has about 150 village schools for Maori, or native, children.

These candidates are endorsed by the Civic Non-Partisan League, whose sole aim is the best possible government for our city. Any Victoria voter may join the league and help select candidates, and there are no strings attached to League endorsement. Each of these candidates is completely independent—otherwise the League would not endorse them.
